

Writing Assignment Dues Dates

Monday/Wednesday Classes

Monday, September 23rd: Submit a copy of your scholarly encyclopedia article. Include your name, class period, and chosen identity at the top. (Worth 5 points.)

Monday, September 30th: Submit a copy of the first page of your first outside primary source. For yourself, complete journal entry number one. Remember this pattern: half a page of summary and half a page of reflection, in your character's "voice." (Worth 5 points.)

Wednesday, October 2nd: Submit a copy of the first page of your second outside primary source. For yourself, complete journal entry number two. Remember this pattern: half a page of summary and half a page of reflection, in your character's "voice." (Worth 5 points.)

Wednesday, October 9th: Submit a copy of the first page of your third outside primary source. For yourself, complete journal entry number three. Remember this pattern: half a page of summary and half a page of reflection, in your character's "voice." (Worth 5 points.)

Wednesday, October 23rd: Submit a page listing the three primary sources, in correct format, you plan to use from America Firsthand. (Worth 5 points.)

The next three you don't have to submit copies to me, but I've included suggested completion dates to help keep you on track.

Monday, October 14th: Choose your first, America Firsthand primary source. Summarize and reflect on it, at least a half a page each, through the eyes of your character's identity in your journal.

Wednesday, October 16th: Choose your second, America Firsthand primary source. Summarize and reflect on it, at least a half a page each, through the eyes of your character's identity in your journal.

Monday, October 21st: Choose your third, America Firsthand primary source. Summarize and reflect on it, at least a half a page each, through the eyes of your character's identity in your journal.

Wednesday, October 23rd: Begin writing a two-page, argumentative, analytical essay, in your own voice, arguing what best defines American History during the time period of your character's life. (Worth 45 points) This is a very academic portion of the project. Work hard on it. Write and rewrite it. Work with the Writing Center to improve your essay and earn extra credit.

Wednesday, October 30th: Work on overall assignment, refining and improving. Work with a tutor or the Writing Center.

Overall assignment due Monday, November 25th, 2013.